COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The knowledge acquired in this course, both theory and practice, enables candidates to critically explore, reflect, and dialogue in a variety of experiential learning activities in outdoor settings, including natural, built, and cultural. Experiential learning is at the heart of Anishinabek knowledge; the candidate experiments with planning and designing activities, assignments, and research to help nurture their own pedagogies. Additionally, the inclusion of local knowledge holders and Elders provides real-life learning opportunities, either virtually or in person. This practice creates a model that candidates can add to their teaching bundles and take with them to their own classrooms.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS:

Teachers certified with the OCT are eligible to take AQ courses. Ontario B.Ed students may take courses prior to membership with OCT if they have met all the requirements to graduate and if they have applied to the OCT for a Certificate of Qualification.
